Facts Are Sought on Club Raid

As a result of legal questions arising from the liquor raid by state officials upon the Klover Klub eight days ago, Prosecuting Attorney Everett M. Sweeley said Friday he has asked for further information from the state.

Sweeley said he has written to Clarence Saunders, director of the state liquor control commission, and to the attorney-general's office. These officials may have to be prepared to carry the matter to the supreme court, he said.

Agents Questioned

Sweeley's action followed questioning by him of the two undercover agents who conducted the raid upon the establishment at 227 Second avenue south about midnight Feb. 5. Sweeley had the officers returned from Boise Wednesday night.

The affidavit of the undercover agents alleges an offense by Irving Steinberg, owner, in permitting patrons to possess liquor for consumption on the premises.

Sweeley said study of the affidavit indicated the state officials will have to give greater clarification of their stand.

Laws in Conflict

One of the legal questions deals with apparent conflict between 1939 and 1947 acts as they apply to certain phases of liquor laws and their enforcement, Sweeley said.

In view of a recent decision by Judge James W. Porter upon a liquor offense in the city of Twin Falls, Sweeley said he felt state officials should be informed the matter may have to be carried to the highest court.

Overlap Pointed Out

Sweeley referred to the Alfonso Ralph and Beatrice Van case which Judge Porter dismissed upon the demurrer of Attorney W. L. Dunn. At the time Dunn pointed out the overlapping of laws drawn in two different years.

The case involved keeping liquor for illegal sale. Under the 1939 act the matter was an indictable misdemeanor, while under the 1947 statute it was a felony, Dunn pointed out.

"Dry" Status Cited

While ruling the defendants would have to be tried under the law which prescribed punishment, Judge Porter said he was not apprised of the "dry" status of the area.

Meanwhile Steinberg was represented by Dunn, continues free on $500 bond, although no formal complaint has been filed against him. The bond was fixed by Justice of the Peace James O. Pumphrey.

Soviet Orders Commission in East Germany

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Germans in the Soviet-occupied eastern zone were instructed by the Russian commander today to set up an economic commission for their part of the country.

Marshall Vassily D. Sokolovsky issued the order. Another Soviet spokesman said it does not mean establishment of an east German government.

The marshal had objected to a German economic administration for the United States and British zones in the west, now being formed, and demanded that the plan be dropped.

In ordering an economic setup for his own zone, he turned down once more a standing invitation to tie in the zone's economy with that of western Germany.

"U. S. TAKES OVER"

MOSCOW, Feb. 13 (AP)—Pravda told Russia today the British flag is being taken down all over the British zone of Germany and the stars and stripes raised instead, as Americans "take over" the Ruhr and other British-administered areas.

A Munich dispatch printed in the communist paper asserted the United States is continually buying into Ruhr mines and German factories and otherwise assuring itself permanent footholds in the German economy.

INVESTMENTS FORBIDDEN

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—New foreign investments in Germany are forbidden under military government law, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, head of the U. S. military government, repeatedly has denied Russian reports of investment of American capital in Germany.

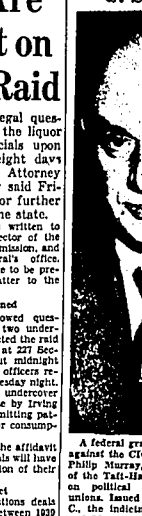

Moisture

Near-normal temperatures, accompanied by "moderate precipitation" in the form of either rain or snow, is scheduled for this area during the next five days, according to the latest forecast of weather as received Friday via the Associated Press.

In the previous forecast of weather, snow was predicted for Friday and Saturday. The current forecast predicts precipitation for Saturday or Sunday. Here is the complete forecast:

"Temperature near normal with little change. Precipitation moderate, occurring as rain or snow Saturday or Sunday, and again Tuesday or Wednesday."

U. S. Indicts

A federal grand jury indictment against the CIO and its president, Philip Murray, charged violation of the Taft-Hartley labor act ban on political activity by labor unions. Issued at Washington, D. C., the indictment said the CIO and Murray participated illegally in the campaign of Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, D., Md., in a special congressional election in Maryland last summer. (NEA telephoto.)

Senate Panel Accord Near On ERP Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (U.P.) — The senate foreign relations committee today appeared close to agreement among its members on a European recovery program.

The committee still has to thresh out the matter of how much the program should cost. All indications are that it will take a sizable tuck in the $6,500,000,000 proposed by the administration for the plan's first 15 months.

Wallace to Testify

Meanwhile, the house foreign affairs committee promised Henry A. Wallace time on Feb. 24 to give his views on the Marshall plan. The third party candidate for President is against it. He thinks European aid should be handled by the United Nations.

The state department disclosed that tacit approval has been given the 16 European Marshall plan nations to hold another meeting on their recovery needs at the end of this month.

Plans Postponed

The 16 western European countries had proposed a new meeting last month, but under state department pressure the plans were postponed.

A department spokesman said today that this government now has no objection to their going ahead with the meeting after the end of this month."

The first meeting, at which 16 nations drew up the estimates of their needs was held in Paris.

Cold 'Easing Off' In Rockies Area

By The Associated Press

Milder weather returned to the Intermountain states today, but some areas of the nation were lashed by another outburst of snow, frost and rain.

Freezing rain and sleet extended from southeastern Kansas and northeastern Oklahoma through Missouri, parts of Illinois and Indiana. Highway travel was reported hazardous. Snow fell in parts of Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and southern Missouri. Many motorists were stranded.

Most of the south was drenched with heavy rains. Nearly all of Texas shivered as temperatures dipped far below normal.

Temperatures moderated in the eastern states and were slightly below normal west of the Rockies.

Dealers Report Boom in Sales Of Leap Year Valentines Here

By BOB GILLIAM

Valentine dealers don't know if its caused by leap year or just Danny Cupid punching the overtime clock, but they are experiencing their biggest sales since the end of World war II.

Card sales started slow this year, as did candy and flowers, but by the first of last week the boom was on and by Friday most of the stock had been picked over and cleaned out.

Card dealers reported cards are more serious than in the past. Gone are the quips making fun of Aunt Tillie and in their places are cards considered by the dealers to be "works of art."

Quality of 1948 cards, while not up to pre-war standards, hit a new post-war high this season. However, dealers report there is still a shortage of high grade paper and the ribbons and tinsel that make up the accessories.

Supply fell short of demands with dealers missing their guess on necessary number of cards. First to sell out were the lower priced cards where the younger school children "cornered the market."

The kids are again observing the old custom of exchanging cards with their classmates. Many school rooms are decorated with the traditional red and white colors and arrow pierced hearts.

No one really knows for certain how the custom of exchanging tokens of affection on Feb. 14 started. But according to one dusty record book, the idea originated in Germany. The first valentine was a fancy paper creation with a picture of a boy presenting a girl with a gift.

After World war I, valentines changed from a German to an American industry. At first the valentines were care-free but they have become serious.

Junior High School's Overcrowding Puts Curb on Quality of Education

(Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles designed to acquaint residents of Twin Falls with actual conditions in Twin Falls schools).

By VERNA SINEMA

In the junior high school, more so than in any other school in Twin Falls, the quality of education offered to children has been affected by overcrowding of facilities.

With the possible exception of the home economics department, all physical features of the junior high school are inadequate.

The auditorium, used jointly with the high school, has 625 seats and space for 50 more students on benches along the walls. Since there are about 880 students in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, only two grades at a time can attend assemblies.

At times entertainments are given twice but more often one of the three grades is kept away from the program. Whenever possible, orchestra, band and similar performances are given in the gymnasium which has seating space for all children.

The gymnasium, the dressing rooms and the shower equipment barely serve their purpose. Boys' and girls' classes are crowded together in the one gymnasium throughout the day. Because of this the variety of activities is restricted. When basketball and similar games are played, the classes are divided into two groups with half sitting on the sidelines as the other half participates.

It has been necessary to continually eliminate a physical education program in the high school in favor of the junior high.

The manual training department is so cramped and small that mechanical drawing and woodwork are the only projects offered. Metal and plastic work and electrical mechanics, which should be a part of every school shop program, cannot be taught.

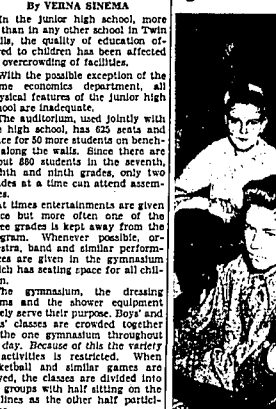

The principal, Mrs. Vera C. O'Leary, believes that typing should be included in the junior business training program, particularly at the ninth grade level, but with no room available for the class and with little chance of getting typewriters if there were room, the course is out of the question at the present time.

A movie projector was purchased some time ago for use in visual education, long advocated by progressive educators as the most effective instructional method. The projector fits idle most of the time because there is no room to spare for its use. As much as possible the projector is carried from room to room. However, in many rooms it cannot be used because the window blinds are worn out and apparently cannot be replaced.

The hot lunch program for 238 students could and should, according to Mrs. O'Leary, feed 1,000 students if there were space for cooking and serving the meals. The kitchen is a cubby hole in the basement hall with a serving counter no wider

Junior High Pupils Double up

In this undersized junior high classroom, eight students are without desks during roll room period. Two boys sit in chairs along the wall and six others double up with friends. Attorney Avers City's Auditorium 'Required'

The proposed Twin Falls city hall cannot be altered to substitute a jail or other accommodation in place of the planned auditorium, City Attorney Joseph H. Blandford said in an opinion Friday.

Blandford's opinion was given in response to a query by Mayor Herbert G. Lauterbach as to whether or not the city legally can change plans for construction of the proposed structure.

Blandford said that "no substantial change" can be made in view of the fact the public was "educated" to well-publicized sketches which included the auditorium, and then voted a bond issue on the matter.

He added that nothing constructive will be accomplished by calling upon civic and service organizations for expressions of opinion. Some members of those groups are not qualified to vote at a taxpayers' election, he noted.

Decided by Ballots

"This matter was decided at the bond election," Blandford concluded.

Prior to the May 21, 1946, bond election, Blandford said, sketches had been displayed bearing a caption which stated "Proposed Twin Falls City Hall and Auditorium."

He said a Times-News story described the building in detail and the auditorium in particular. The story pointed out that the auditorium, with adjacent kitchen facilities, was to be used for meetings and conventions.

Well Publicized

During the pre-election period a colored picture of the proposed structure was on display at the Idaho Power company, and broadcasts describing the building also were made, he added.

At the election, taxpayers voted that the city should issue $150,000 in bonds for the proposed building. "It is reasonable to assume," he

Solons Adopt Wait and See Price Attitude

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (U.P.) — House Republicans cocked an anxious eye at tumbling prices today and decided to adopt a wait-and-see attitude toward rent and other economic controls.

Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott of the house banking committee said he thought that instead of passing a new rent control law, it might be a good idea for congress to extend the present law for 30 days to see what's going to happen to the nation's economic structure.

It's possible, he said, that congress might approve an entirely different rent control bill at the end of March than it would within the next few days. The present rent control law expires in 16 days.

"If prices continue to drop for 10 days to two weeks, or do not go back up, we can assume that this is the stabilizing recession we've been waiting for," the Michigan Republican said.

President Truman's news conference statement yesterday that he still wants congress to approve his whole 10-point anti-inflation program, including price-wage controls and rationing authority, fell on deaf ears on capitol hill.

Chamber Will Send Pair to Youth Parley

Two Twin Falls high school students will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce at the state-wide Young Men's Christian association youth and government assembly, meeting in Caldwell Monday.

Following a suggestion by City Attorney J. H. Blandford, the chamber board of directors at their luncheon meeting Friday voted to send Duane Bell, 530 Main avenue south, and William Watts, 361 Seventh avenue north, to the meetings.

Trains Youth

The purpose of the assembly, Blandford explained, is to train representatives of 40 high school, Hi-Y and YMCA groups in the legislative procedure prior to the state youth assembly in Boise April 2 and 3.

At the Caldwell conclave, senators and representatives are to be elected to represent counties in Magic Valley, Blandford said. They will sit in on state legislative sessions in Boise and then hold a "youth legislature" of their own.

Decision by State Ends Controversy Over Electricians

Controversy between Merritt Shotwell and the city of Twin Falls appears to be at an end in view of the attorney-general's ruling that the city may no longer license electricians.

Before Shotwell was asked in December to show cause to the city council concerning an alleged violation of city regulation, City Attorney J. H. Blandford was asked to prepare an opinion on the matter.

Blandford suggested that revocation of Shotwell's license would be of no effect if a hearing determined that Shotwell was at fault. Blandford held state regulations superceded city law, and was sustained.

It was erroneously reported Thursday that Shotwell didn't have city licenses for himself or his shop. At the time Shotwell had all licenses required by the city.

The incident grew out of a complaint filed by Electric Inspector A. E. Dickey. Dickey said Shotwell had an apprentice on a job unaccompanied by a licensed journeyman or contractor.

Shotwell said Friday he himself was in attendance at all times when the apprentice actually was working on a job.

Goading Drive for Polio Hits $5,447

GOODING, Feb. 13—During the recent polio drive, Gooding county raised $5,447.25, Milen Daniels, county chairman, has announced.

Of this amount, $71.77 were paid out in expenses.

Broken down, communities in the county donated these amounts: Gooding, $2,565.28; Bliss, $17.67; Hagerman, $576; Tuttle, $382.24; Shoshtring, $196.89, and Wendell, $1,709.17.

Wild Session Sees Grain Mart Prices Drop, Then Steady

By The United Press

Corn prices plunged the full eight-cent limit and other grains fluctuated wildly on the Chicago board of trade today, but there was evidence that the big market break might be nearing the end. Corn for delivery in May and July, two of the principal contracts, fell the limit as trading opened this morning, rallied and dropped several times, and finally fell off at the close.

It was the seventh time in eight days of trading that corn had dropped the limit. May corn has dropped from an all-time high of $2.70¼ a bushel on Jan. 16 to 1.97¼ today—a plunge of 73½ cents in less than a month.

However, for the first time in eight days the wheat market showed signs of levelling off.

The government still had not re-entered the market, but for the first time since the break began last week, July wheat showed a gain at the close of trading. It was up about one cent.

Other wheat contracts ranged from losses of 5 cents a bushel to fractions of a cent.

"Market Healthier"

A prominent wheat trader said that despite the nervous trading today, "the market looks a lot healthier, and the end of the break, in wheat at least, may be at hand."

There was a general improvement in stocks, exceptions were many but at the close gains of a few cents to $1 a share predominated. Cotton fluctuated in a wide range in New York and at the close was 15 cents to $1.25 a bale lower.

Butter Swings Down

A violent downswing hit the wholesale butter market. The price of wholesale butter nose-dived 5 to 6½ cents at New York and as much as 5½ cents a pound at Chicago.

One large grain brokerage said today it saw little reason to change its prediction that corn prices would sink still lower. Another firm said "lack of confidence" in the commodity markets still prevails. A third brokerage said there probably would be many false rallies before the markets are stabilized.

Wheat Is Slipped

Reports from the wheat belt said farmers had shipped some grain to market in the fear that prices may drop still lower. Other farmers, however, reported they were hanging on to their grain in the hope the government will begin buying again and send the price upward.

At Washington, the department of agriculture said prices of most fruits are expected to remain lower this winter than they were last year. The department said there has been no increase in domestic demand, and that exports have been curtailed because of dollar shortages.

Price Skid to Level of 1933 Is Discounted

BOISE, Feb. 13 (U.P.)—A price skid to the levels of 1933 is not in prospect despite the current "jittery" condition of the commodity markets, Howard J. Gramlich, Chicago, agricultural agent for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, said today.

Gramlich, who addressed the annual banquet of the Idaho horticultural society last night, pointed out that in the market slump the past week, grain prices still are not as low as they were a year ago.

Were Too High

"Even the farmer will tell you that prices were higher than anyone could have hoped they would stay," said Gramlich. "A high market is always jittery and anything can happen, but I don't think prices will see the starvation stage reached in the early 30's.

The horticultural society will wind up its 53rd annual meeting today with election of officers.

Market Agreements Probed

Yesterday the fruit growers authorized a committee to determine whether the fruit industry should apply for a federal marketing agreement. Under such an agreement, the quality and quantity of fruit shipments would be controlled and thereby bring about price stabilization.

The need for such an agreement was brought out in discussions which showed that Idaho apple growers suffered heavy losses on their 1947 crop and that gross income from other fruit crops was not as large as anticipated earlier.

'71' Livestock Unit Conducts Meeting Here

Forest and grazing officials of southern Idaho and northern Nevada met in Twin Falls Thursday at the annual winter meeting of the 71 Livestock association to discuss plans for the current grazing season in Humboldt national forest.

Walter Gilmer, past president of the Nevada Cattlemen's association, told the group that the meat industry must survive by better public relations with the consumer. The public is interested in lower prices of meat, but very often fails to understand the problems of the producers, he added.

Wool Man Talks

John Breckenridge, president of Idaho Cattle association, warned explained the present problems of the wool industry and suggested that the United States send wool and woolen clothing to Europe rather than money under the Marshall plan.

R. K. Patrick, a member of the Idaho Cattle association, warned the group that they must be on the lookout for the hoof and mouth disease in cattle.

He pointed out that while cattle herds in this area are not threatened with the disease, they are not immune to it.

Curran Presides

Association President Martin Curran, Hagerman, presided at the meeting.

Other speakers included Ben Evens, Carey, Federal Wildlife association representative; Leon Weeks, Boise, Idaho Cattlemen's association secretary; R. J. Hawes, Twin Falls, past president of the Idaho Cattlemen's association, and A. R. Torgerson, forest supervisor of the Humboldt national forest.

Curran announced that the annual spring meeting of the association will be held at Three Creek late in May.

Idaho Prices At Wholesale Show Decline

BOISE, Feb. 13 (U.P.)—Wholesale price declines in meat, flour and shortenings have been made statewide in the last few days, the Idaho Food Dealers association reported today.

Association Secy. Frank B. Wilson said the substantial price decreases will be passed on to the consumer.

Results Told

Wilson said his survey showed these price decreases:

Coeur d'Alene—Flour down 25 cents a 50-pound bag, lard and bacon down six cents, frankfurters three cents, link sausage two cents, pork steak four cents, shortenings 10 cents per three pounds.

Wallace-Kellogg—Flour down 50 cents a hundred with another 30 cents drop expected shortly, shortening down three cents and sugar down 25 cents a hundred.

Twin Falls Cuts

Twin Falls—Wholesale pork and beef down two cents, sugar down 40 cents a hundred, eggs down 20 per cent, flour down 60 cents and all cooking oils off slightly.

Idaho Falls—Sugar off 25 cents a hundred, shortenings down two cents a pound, flour 65 cents a hundred and lard four cents.

Caldwell—Sugar down 25 cents a hundred, bacon down 16 cents a pound and flour off 40 cents per 50 pounds.

Boise—Shortenings off two cents, sugar down 25 cents, butter off two cents, loin steaks seven cents, pork chops five cents, bacon 15 cents, lard, five cents and flour 50 cents per 50 pounds.

"We have evidence of price drops in the wholesale meat sales which were voluntary," said Wilson, "because they were made before the market affected the price. The wholesaler and retailer are just as anxious to reduce the food bill as the consumer."

Grain 'Break' Blame Handed To New Law

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Two senators from the wheat belt today blamed the crack in grain prices at least partly on a law congress passed last December.

Senators Young, R., N.D., a farmer, and Bushfield, R., S.D., a lawyer, introduced legislation to repeal it. The law was passed before congress approved emergency aid for Europe. It says all shipments of wheat from this country must stop when reserve supplies drop to 150,000,000 bushels.

At the time, government officials and others were worried about rising wheat prices. There were arguments that prices might go clear out of sight if supplies got too low; that any miscalculations as to supplies might mean a bread shortage in the United States.

Leaders in the grain trade favored the law. They said it would tend to check the inflationary rise of prices. President Truman had asked anti-inflation legislation.

Kimberly Man In Local Jail Gets Reprieve

KIMBERLY Feb. 13—Dee Tate, Kimberly, will be released from the Twin Falls county jail in a few days on an unconditional reprieve granted by Gov. C. A. Robins.

The reprieve was granted upon the recommendation of Justice of Peace Dennis Smith, who, on Jan. 19, ordered Tate committed to jail for 90 days on drunkenness and disturbing the peace charges. He is to be released from jail after having served 30 days of the 90-day sentence.

According to Smith, Tate was arrested and found guilty of the two offenses last October. He was given a 90-day suspended sentence on condition he stay sober and turn his pay checks home to his wife.

In January, Smith said, Tate was picked up for drunkenness and the 90-day sentence was imposed. As soon as Tate defendant had been committed to jail, Smith asked Governor Robins to grant the reprieve so Tate could support his wife and two children.

"I think that 30 days is punishment enough," Smith said, "but I originally sentenced him to 90 days in hopes that the threat of serving such a length of time would help to keep out of trouble."

Annual Bull Sale Set for March 20

The ninth annual spring bull sale of the Idaho Cattlemen's association will be held March 20 in the Twin Falls Livestock Commission company yards, Tom Callen of the bull association committee announced here Thursday.

Callen said he expects about 60 purebred Hereford bulls and possibly 20 Hereford cows to be consigned to the sale. This will be the first time that no bulls under 18 months will be offered for sale.

Judges will be Lyman Ipsen, Malad, and C. W. Hickman, head of the University of Idaho animal husbandry department.

The association will have a dinner meeting in the evening following the sale.

Farm-Bloc Senators Urging Sweeping Changes in Farm Price Support Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (U.P.)—Some farm-bloc senators today advocated sweeping changes in the government's program for supporting farm prices.

The changes were proposed in a tentative draft of a bill providing for a long-range farm program. The present support price law expires Dec. 31.

Proponents of the legislation said its main purpose is to stabilize farm income and production. They said it would work out so that farmers would be guaranteed at least 11 per cent of the national income. This is about three-quarters of their normal share of 1" per cent.'

The proposal calls for these two main changes in the present system of supporting farm prices:

1. Changing the method of calculating the so-called parity price for various farm commodities.

2. Revising the way of applying the parity to determine what price the government will guarantee the farmer for a particular commodity.

Two major changes would be made in the method of calculating parity. The base period would be a "moving one" of the preceding 10 years. It now is the five years 1909-1914 for most farm commodities.

And the cost of hired labor would be added as a factor in figuring the cost of things farmers must buy. It is not considered now.

In using parity to support farm prices, the government now guarantees the farmer a fixed percentage of parity for each unit of a particular crop. For most crops, it is 90 per cent—the minimum set by law. The national total income of farmers is not considered.

The proposed plans calls for a sliding scale of government support prices, depending upon the available supply of a particular crop. The new support price would range from 60 to 90, or maybe even 100 per cent of parity. It would go down as the supply—carry-over plus current production—of a particular commodity goes up.

In other words, when crops are short, the support price would be high. When there are big crops, the support price would be reduced. This is not done under the present system.

Advocates of the plan believed this flexible use of parity prices would result in stabilizing both farm income and production.

SICE Classes Opener Draws 27 "Students"

Three classes offered by the Southern Idaho College of Education extension service met for the first time Thursday evening with 27 persons attending.

Under the supervision of Neal Nash, director of the extension service, a class dealing with Idaho school problems met in Mrs. Doris Stradley's office in the courthouse. This course is required study as outlined by the state board of education for Idaho teachers who need further training to obtain their degrees, Nash said.

A class in applied sociology, dealing with marriage and the family, was conducted by T. F. Borden in the jury room.

David Ross opened his first class in social psychology, which stresses the social and cultural forces of modern society. This group met in the probate court room.

Nash said registration is still open for the classes. The last date for enrollment will be Feb. 26. Interested persons are asked to contact Mrs. Stradley, county superintendent of schools, at her office for further information.

Instructors meet with students here every two weeks during the time the courses are offered, Nash explained.

added, "that many voters were influenced by the newspaper items, radio talks and public displays. The town hall occupies a very important place in the life of a community, and it is a reasonable deduction that some voters cast their ballots in favor of the building because it would have a meeting hall with its stage and kitchen facilities.

"Members of the council are but representatives of the people, and when the people have spoken, their determination is paramount. In cases I have examined, it appears that courts will not hesitate to grant and sustain injunctions enjoining city councils from acting contrary to the expressed will of the people by materially changing plans for the construction of a building authorized by popular vote."

'Good Will' Isn't Defense Enough, Dworshak States

DETROIT Feb. 13 (AP)—Good will in Europe is not sufficient defense for this country "in an atomic age," Sen. Henry C. Dworshak R., Ida., said last night.

He expressed support of a bipartisan foreign relief program but urged the maintenance by this country of a strong air force.

"We know that if there is communist agression, good will alone will not protect us," he said in a Lincoln day address.

"We must maintain a first class air force so that we will be ready when and if we engulfe us again.

"The challenge to the American people today is greater than in Civil war days for we do not have peace today. One of the four freedoms was freedom from fear, but in our country today there are some people who suffer from fear of the future."

Morgan Cites Need for New Schools Here

The need of a new high school for Twin Falls is "acute" and if a new building is not built, school facilities in the very near future will not be adequate, A. W. Morgan, superintendent of city schools, told a group at a meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters Thursday night in Legion hall.

Morgan explained that plans call for making the present senior high school building the junior high school and converting the part of the building housing the junior high into an elementary school.

He pointed out that the present high school building is inadequate to fill the needs on a modern educational program.

Approximately 35 persons attended the meeting.

Morgan will speak at 10 p. m. Saturday over KTFI on the reasons voters should vote "yes" on the school bond issue. The program is sponsored by the Junior-Senior PTA.

School Unity Vote Is Set in Elmore

GLENNS FERRY, Feb. 13—Ray Nims, superintendent of schools, announced at a recent PTA meeting that on March 6 an election will be held to determine whether or not reorganization of school districts in this area will be accepted by the people.

Nims asks all voters to weigh carefully the importance of this election.

"Should the election fail," he said, "it then will be the duty of the county reorganization committee to propose a new plan."

It was decided that the PTA will serve dinner for the Moose lodge at their mid-winter conference here Feb. 28 and 29. Committee meetings will be called soon to make arrangements for serving. Mrs. M. Daniels, president, announced that immunization of all school and preschool children will be held March 5.

The PTA meeting honored Founders' day and a silver offering was taken.

The Rev. Harold Mackey was in charge of the program which included a Swedish folk dance.

Missing Teacher Is Found Frozen

SAMUELS, Feb. 13 (AP)—The body of Edward Bradley, 42-year-old country school teacher, was found frozen to death yesterday, two miles west of here on the Pack river road.

Bradley left here Sunday on foot through 20 inches of snow for the school house six miles away. When he did not open the building as usual Monday a search was launched.

His body was found by County Commissioner M. D. Hart. Bradley had made a bed of boughs and built a fire in an effort to keep warm.

A native of Sandpoint, Bradley had been teaching at the North Star school about a month. He was a graduate of North Idaho College at Lewiston and attended the University of Idaho and Central Washington college.

to Idaho senators in Washington, D. C., to request a revaluation on the Twin Falls labor camp, up for sale to the county for $400,000.

This move followed acceptance of a proposal by the agricultural committee to solicit the membership of 75 farmers and ranch owners in the vicinity.

A wider educational program to familiarize housewives and businessmen alike with the use of 'blue card" vendor identification papers was also decided by the board.

Considers Signs

The strategic placement of signs along route 30 to guide tourists to Twin Falls was referred to the advertising and publicity committee.

The financial report for 1947 which listed in excess of $7,500 in assets, was read by Secretary Bodine.

Attending the meeting were Frank Judd, president, M. A. Dingle, vice president, Dr. Frank McAtee, R. M. Serpa, Elvis Cain, Gordon Gray, J. C. Ashworth, Edward W. Crane and H. A. Severin. They will be installed formally tonight at the chamber banquet.

Junior High's Overcrowding Cutting Classes

than the width of the door. Dirty dishes are placed in buckets and tubs lined up in the hall.

Many of the classrooms have overflowed into portable chairs jammed into space already too small. In one particularly undersized room, students sit double in as many as six desks and two other youngsters sit in extra chairs in the narrow aisle. Ventilation in these overcrowded rooms is cause for complaint.

There are 33 teachers in the junior high, six of whom divide their work between the high school and junior high. All of the teachers carry a full load of six classes a day, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. or 8 a. m. to 3 p. m.

The curriculum, which is limited because of physical facilities, is also restricted because there can be no further faculty expansion. The only possibility would be the hiring of a "traveling" teacher, who would move about conducting classes in the empty rooms which occur occasionally during the day.

The situation at the junior high is particularly depressing in that the conditions now prevalent have been in existence for many years. At various times in the past, the enrollment has been actually larger than now. For example in 1946 and 10 years before that in 1936 there were 50 more students enrolled than at present.

What is discouraging to instructors and administrators is that through the years educational practices and curriculum planning should have improved as the methods and objects of study have become more humanistic and progressive. But in a small, outmoded plant like the junior high, there is little chance for progression. In planning the curriculum, convenience has had to be the foremost consideration.

However, a threat has arisen which may precipitate the conditions that the intermediate school requires for a full and valuable program.

From all indications, when the present small ninth grade passes into high school next year and is replaced by a much larger sixth grade arriving from the grade schools, more than 50 additional students will have to be accomodated in the junior high.

This trend for larger and larger incoming sixth grades will continue for many years until the increase in first year enrollments has leveled off and passed through the elementary grades. The only answer to this threat is more space. It may well be that in solving the over-enrollment problem, the defects in curriculum may also be overcome.

If next week's bond election and other elections to come, providing for construction of a new high school, are passed, the junior high and a fourth elementary school will share the present junior-senior high building.

The grade school would use a much smaller portion of the building than now occupied by the junior high, leaving the bulk of the building for the intermediate grades.

Issues Call

Rt. Rev. H. K. Sherrill

. . . who has issued a call to all confirmed members of the Episcopal church to a corporate communion Sunday, the first such event for the entire church in America, and the first step in the new emphasis on evangelism.

All Episcopalians Called to Special Services Sunday

All confirmed members of Episcopal churches in the nation have been called to a corporate communion Sunday by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop according to the Rev. E. Leslie Rolls, pastor of the local Church of the Ascension.

The communion is the first step in the new emphasis on evangelism and is not to end with attendance Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Rolls said. He said the communion will be a prelude to a well-kept Lent and should be the occasion of a renewal of the individual's consecration to God throughout the Lenten season.

Three celebrations of Holy communion will be held in the Twin Falls Church of the Ascension, including the early service at 8 a. m., special instructive celebration for members of the church school and their parents at 10 a. m., and regular choral communion with sermon at 11:15 a. m.

Budget Ok'd For Minidoka At $77,908.45

RUPERT, Feb. 13—A budget of $77,908.45 for Minidoka county has been approved by the county commissioners.

The figures show an increase of $2,844 over the 1947 budget but are $5,229 lower than the $83,138 originally set up as the county budget.

Of the $5,229 cut from the tentative figure, $2,679 was slashed from the budget for the sheriff's office. Other departmental slashes were auditor, $718.95; county superintendent of schools, $615; assessor, $441.05; treasurer, $427.25; probate judge, $173.75, and county agent, $173.75.

Most of the increases were in the cost of materials, labor and supplies. Generally, the proposed 15 per cent increase to both elective offices and clerical help was cut to five per cent. The salary of the probate judge was raised from $2,000 to $2,400 a year and the salary of the clerk in the sheriff's office was upped from $87.50 to $125 a month. CAPACITY, 30 to 80 gallons per minute at 20 to 50 lbs. pressure, or 50 to 180 gallons at open discharge.
WATER LEVELS, 30 to 200 feet.
MOTORS, 1½ to 7½ H.P., 1750 R.P.M., single or 3-phase.

- LONG-LIVED, WEAR-RESISTANT RUBBER BEARINGS.
- WATER-LUBRICATED—NO OILY-TASTING WATER.
- DURABLE CONSTRUCTION, ATTRACTIVELY PRICED.

Many small farms can use only one deep well pump for both irrigation and domestic pressure water. The Berkeley Dual-Purpose Pump solves this problem perfectly—high capacity for flood irrigation, high pressure for sprinkler and house—with both services at top efficiency. LET US SHOW YOU!

SHOW-OFF SEASON

A lot of breath and a lot of newsprint have been squandered on discussions of the income tax cuts, proposed by President Truman and the house of representatives. Both the breath and the paper might have been saved.

Mr. Truman knows perfectly well that the Republican congress would never approve his cut of $40 across the board, with higher corporation taxes to make up the loss in revenue. The house knew equally well that its whopping reduction of $6,500,000,000 not only would be vetoed, but would surely be trimmed down by the senate.

All of which means that the silly season is again upon us. From now until November, both parties will be mixing serious business with antics to impress the voters.

With opposite parties controlling the executive and legislative branches of the government, we can expect the ancient, invariable election-year pattern to be repeated. Each party will try to outdo the other in promises.

Aid and comfort will be offered to the farmers, to organized labor, to the veterans, to big business and little business. Democrats and Republicans will put up phantom Christmas trees loaded with higher wages, lower prices, bigger subsidies, lower taxes, more housing, easier credit, and other visionary sugar plums.

Both parties will be frantically kidding themselves, and hoping that they are kidding the public too. And probably a segment of the public will be deceived, at that.

But there is another segment of the public that can see what would happen if the phantom Christmas trees were real. Their top-heavy load would tumble them over immediately, of course. So this other segment is going to be more interested in seeing what the tow parties will work out when they buckle down to realities.

Foremost among the realities is a budget. There will be a lot of sharp and bitter clashes before it can be agreed on.

Whatever the final agreement, the budget total is going to be a big one. When that total is known the logical time to consider tax cuts will be at hand. Even then, present conditions will present some special problems.

All of us, for obvious personal reasons, would welcome an income tax cut. Millions of Americans are having a truly desperate time to make ends meet.

But what would happen to prices with billions of extra dollars in circulation? What would happen if money given to the consumer were taken from corporations that otherwise might expand operations, increase production, and help bring supply and demand more nearly into balance? How much relief, and what kind, will ease the tax burden without increasing inflation?

The two parties in Washington must answer those serious questions, once they have stopped standing on their heads to impress the voters.

BANNING A NAZI—NAZI STYLE

The Polish government has banned performances of the music of the Austrian composer, Richard Strauss, because he "embraced the same ideology as Hitler." When one thinks of the horrible slaughter, terror and devastation that the Poles suffered at nazi hands, their bitterness is understandable.

But Strauss is 84, penniless, and artistically dead. His enduring music is 30 and more years behind him. It might seem that the Polish government's present action also tends to resemble the ideology of Hitler, who banned the music of Jews, living and dead, because he didn't like their religion and their ancestry.

SUBSIDIZING THE LITTLE FOXES

Fashions in furs have changed, it seems, and, as a result, silver foxes aren't the saleable commodity they once were. So fox farmers are asking government loans totaling $8,000,000 to keep them in business. Their request has been approved by the agriculture committee of the senate and house.

We don't know if the full membership of congress will grant the loans. If it does, the country's taxpayers may count themselves lucky that this idea was not thought of before. If it had been they would probably still be supporting the makers of fringe-topped surreys, whalebone corsets, buggy whips, gas mantles and sundry other departed items.

LURKING DANGERS IN THE NEW LOOK

An automobile club executive has taken a long look at the new look and, professionally speaking, has found it bad. Long skirts are a traffic hazard in and out of a car he says. They interfere with operation of the car's pedals, and are likely to trip up a pedestrian if she has to scoot out of the path of an oncoming vehicle.

It may be that the new look also promotes safer city driving by diverting fewer motorists' glances from the street ahead. But, by and large, we'd say that the auto clubman makes sense — at least as much sense as the new fashion.

A timid man is one who feels he should limp a little when carrying a cane.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The leading lawyers of the United States have filed serious and solemn protest with the White House, the department of justice and the treasury against officially sponsored radio programs and magazine stories which promote rather than deter crime.

Principal protestant against federal officials' glorification of crime and criminals has been the American Bar association.

Ray Tucker

Their principal target is J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation. Hoover, who craves headlines, has two programs on the air weekly.

They acclaim FBI achievements and captures, usually accomplished through the aid of local or state police. How this particular crook was caught is told in detail.

SCHOOLS—Hoover's radio revelations and magazine articles tend to tip off present and prospective criminals on how they can break or evade the law, the barristers believe.

In the words of an American Bar association report on criminal law, the radio programs sponsored by the department of justice are nothing less than "schools for crime."

Atty.-Gen. Tom Clark, however, has rebuffed all attempts to curb the department of justice from becoming a "school for criminals."

He encourages any D. of J. publicity that will get his name in the headlines, even if J. Edgar's radio programs tend to defeat his anti-criminal objective.

THEORY—Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower is quite upset and disgusted with the belief of certain newspaper and political pundits that, despite his refusal to run for the presidency in 1948, he might be an available candidate for the GOP in 1952.

Several newspaper writers at Washington, who have covered or written or understood practical politics, have advanced this theory.

They figure that General Eisenhower, after four years as head of Columbia university, will be an academician and a civilian rather than a military man. Therefore, he would be a logical candidate for the presidential nomination in 1952.

What the Eisenhower boosters forget is that some other Republican—Vandenberg, Dewey or Taft—may capture the White House next fall, without any political aid from General Eisenhower.

In 1952, assuming that the GOP wins in 1948, General Eisenhower will have no claim for GOP political preferment.

In other words, "Ike" will exert no more influence on America than John J. Pershing did after World war I.

ANTI-SEGREGATION—President Truman and his political advisers scoff at southern threats of political revolt because of the administration's sponsorship of an anti-segregation program.

In this historical, economic and political controversy, Mr. Truman has aligned himself, to hold the Negro vote in the great cities, with the so-called liberals and radicals whom Henry Wallace hopes to corral.

Despite President Truman's attitude on this question, which is resented by Minority Leader Sam Rayburn in the house and Minority Leader Alben W. Barkley in the senate, he expects to carry the southern states with their 100-odd electoral votes.

The White House figures that the south will understand that Mr. Trumaft must have the colored vote in northern cities, and, to get it, he must make promises which the south will resent.

REDUCTION—Good news for the taxpayers: The house has passed a tax reduction measure which President Truman will veto. It is doubtful if the senate would override a presidential veto of the house measure, which digs rather deeply into the federal treasury.

The big news is this: House leaders, to save their faces, had to pass the Knutson measure, providing for a $6,500,000,000 tax reduction. But, off the record, they have informed senate Republican bosses that they will subscribe to the senate cut of approximately $4,000,000,000.

With the aid of anti-Truman Democrats, enactment of such a tax reduction program is assured.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

PAINFUL TRIAL AND ERROR

"Oblige me by referring to the files," says Kipling in his poem, in which he points out very clearly the tendency of history to repeat itself.

"The all-recording, all-obliterating files," he calls them also. Everything that happens appears in the newspapers somewhere, duly goes into retirement in bound volumes or latterly in microfilm cases—and the current generation knows it no more.

Only the curious, the confirmed researcher, or the person who has some special and personal reason for resurrecting the record, goes back and discovers them.

The burden of Kipling's lay is precisely that of the book of proverbs; "There is nothing new under the sun."

Therein lies much comfort and serenity, for whoever is willing to turn from the excitements of the day, and discover that very much the same drama took place time and time again in the past—without stopping the slow, stubborn, climbing idealism of the human race, toward its vision of one world at peace.

In a local convention of nurserymen last week, a guest speaker, surveying the business picture, showed a startling parallel between the current year and the corresponding year after the close of World war I. The difference between the two pictures consists in the fact that the present picture is not so gloomy, and the events of the past year have been less serious than the corresponding events a generation ago.

For anyone who cares to make a comparison, it is evident that the postwar people of 1948 have learned something about dealing with postwar conditions that had not been learned a generation ago. They are applying those lessons to the present and, by comparison, they are getting better results.

Retrace the pattern to the period following the Civil war, or further back to historical periods in more remote countries and times, and it seems to recur on a slowly ascending spiral.

In short, the human race, through trial and error, through travail between the selfish and the unselfish sides of its complex nature, is rising to higher things—and we are in a position to do our share in our own niche in the great pattern.

One job each of us can keep at continually is the job of faith and hope.

And the serenity that abides in faith and hope can in a large measure be achieved by forming the habit, continually, of reflecting the disturbed and apparently disunified pattern in the present, in the more clear and settled mirror of the historical past—and noting how the outline of "one world" grows steadily clearer and more certain through the thousands of thundering years.—Oregon Journal.

KING-SIZE STEAKS

An Englishman who went home after two years in our midst, wrote in a large London publication that "I don't expect you to believe me when I say I shall not miss America's steaks."

A truly sensational statement to make in view of the bleak fare available in the United Kingdom. "I did not eat a half dozen of them in two years," he went on. "They are big—much too big for a British stomach."

How the size of our steaks compares with the size of British stomachs (emaciated as they must be by now) is a technical detail that the owner of an American stomach could not be expected to know without special study—the time for which he certainly has not had, owing to his preoccupation in trying to make enough money to get a steak to fit his own stomach.

This observation by our British guest most likely was a manifestation of that snobbishness the British are supposed to practice—putting himself in a six-steak class in two years, just as if there weren't millions of Americans in the same class.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

POT SHOTS

NOT IN 40 YEARS

Dear Pot Shots:

In response to the article which appeared from "Two Jerome Readers" my 40-year calendar discloses that February, 1948, is the only February having five Sundays between the years 1930 and 1970.

In February, 1960, the Sundays come on 7, 14, 21 and 28.

I have had this calendar, which is hand-engraved in metal and made in India, since 1932 and have never found an incorrect date.

No, according to this calendar, the cycle does not (or has not) appeared every 12 years.

SAW HIS SHADOW?

Dear Pots:

Until further developments, I will continue to believe the T-R erred in proclaiming that the groundhog failed to see his shadow Feb. 2. If you will recall the weather of that day, you may remember that the sun made a valiant effort to break through the clouds early in the day.

Now I maintain that no self-respecting groundhog would attempt to stick his nose out until about 9 a.m., and any groundhog who tested the weather after that hour is just downright lazy. At about 9 a.m. on Feb. 2, I think the groundhog would have seen his shadow.

Current weather tends to substantiate my claim, doesn't it?

STILL LOOKING

Dear Shooter:

Maybe we've waited too long, but we're still trying to find Pat, an old black and white setter, who has been missing since the opening day of pheasant season last Nov. 1.

The last trace we ever found of Pat was when Mrs. Shook said she saw him at Shook's service station three miles out of Shoshone on highway 93. She said she knew he was lost. The last she saw of him, he was going up the road, so someone must have picked him up. Searching and advertising haven't found Pat, so can you help us?

FAMOUS LAST LINE

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

Those adherents of Henry Wallace who boast that, whatever his faults, their man is honest, have made a serious political mistake. This mistake will redound to the advantage of historical truth. It will stimulate persons who go exploring in the wastes and caverns of myth, fallacy and fraud in search of truth.

Westbrook Pegler

No man is completely honest and most of us are content to have it said that we may be relied on in all the occasions in which character, integrity and self-respect are the foundation of confidence.

Had Wallace's friends been content to accept such a reputation for this soapy fellow of theirs and let him go drooling on his way, flapping his Hitlerian hang and running the back of his hand across his mouth, they would have had an advantage of decent men.

But they have talked too much. They have summoned the, as it were, devil's advocates to challenge their proposition.

Wallace has refused to answer whether he wrote all or any of the imbecilic letters to the late Nicholas Roerich, the Russian guru, or mahatma, which the entire new deal cabal concealed from the voters in 1940 when Henry was Roosevelt's personal nominee for vice president.

The man who wrote those letters was, by American popular standards as dizzy as a dervish. These letters are revolting in their idiotic, juvenile prattle of esoteric jargon.

One authority an oriental philosophies says the writer certainly did not understand any of these philosophies, but obviously had dabbled in one or more of them and had picked up some of the terms, as a cheap Englishman, hanging around a Piccadilly bar, essays to acquire the American twang and slang and then makes an ass of himself by exclaiming, "Well, I guess I sure am some Yank!"

As to the authenticity of these letters, I have the professional opinion of Clark Sellers, of Los Angeles, acknowledged by others in the profession of examining doubtful documents to be the best of them all, that the man who wrote two certain wrote the idiotic guru letters. Henry wrote the idiotic Guru letters. Henry Wallace is the man who wrote the letters to me.

Several times during the summer of 1947 I tried to induce Wallace to examine the photographs of these letters. He ducked like a deadbeat and I haven't caught up with the faker yet, although of course I could confront him by setting myself that task and ignoring all others.

He knew what I wanted because I left word at his office. He knew, further, of course, that it was my intention to pluck that loose thread of his union suit and keep pulling and winding until I stripped him and revealed him as a mountebank, and not a hero but a slacker, and not an honest man, even for normal daily purposes.

The only reporter who did have the professional acumen and resolution to demand at a press conference that Wallace answer whether he wrote the letters was John O'Donnell, of the New York News, who hit him with a direct question and made the babbling faker tin-can it.

O'Connell not only reported the incident, which others present guiltily ignored, but he pointed out that one of the left-wing reporters deliberately distorted the colloquy to Wallace's advantage.

Now, regardless of whether Wallace wrote these letters, and I do not allege that he did, the fact does remain that he was a student of Roerich's teachings and a frequenter of Roerich's lamasery, or joss house, on Riverside drive.

This intimacy continued until April, 1934, when Wallace, as secretary of agriculture, selected Roerich, of all persons, and one of his sons, to go to Mongolia and Manchuria to search for drought-resisting grass-seeds to replenish the dust-bowl.

Roerich was not a botanist. He was not an American citizen. He was a Russian on good terms with the Soviet government and he was using a French passport.

This expedition cost the American taxpayers $35,867, and Wallace's real purpose was to get Roerich out of the United States and banish him until he could no longer cause him, Wallace, any embarrassment by telling the truth.

The department of agriculture had many botanists capable of collecting such seed, including men with expeditionary experience known to be hardy and resourceful in the field.

Wallace actually did assign two such American experts to go along with Roerich and perform the actual scientific duties of botanists, but only as subordinates, although they did all the work.

The same men or other American scientists would have made the same trip for their regular pay plus small expenses. Wallace could have ordered such seed by mail, I have been unable to find any final report.

But the effect of this exploration was to exile the Russian, who was in a position to denounce Wallace, not only in his implication in the oriental religious cult, but in his business relations with Louis L. Horch.

Horch is an adventurer in finance and something which he calls culture." He gives a sketchy and unconvincing biography, but the fact is known that he lost his balance, or now professes to have lost it, over Roerich, personally, whom he regarded as God, and his teachings.

Mrs. Horch went similarly haywire and all this is set forth in court records in New York. The case was obscure, however, and the record is not easily exhumed.

Some of the old devotees now allege that Wallace became interested in Horch's activities as a speculator in foreign exchange and silver. In view of recent disclosures of advantageous trading by intimates of President Truman on the basis of inside information, the nature of Horch's deals about that time will be investigated.

To make sure that Roerich would not come back and squeal on Wallace, the treasury, under Henry Morgenthau, started a prosecution alleging fraud in his income tax returns. Horch had been Roerich's fiscal agent and held his power of attorney.

Yet Horch testified against his own principal at a trial which Roerich could not attend in his own defense because he was banished to India. Then Horch began civil action to recover title to the lamasery, or joss-house, now grown to a skyscraper.

Horch had come out of his daze and wanted to take back his gifts to his old god-man. The department of agriculture, under Wallace, assisted Horch by issuing a press release at a critical moment in the trial accusing Roerich of being a Japanese spy. This was intended to discredit Roerich.

After Wallace had finished his term as vice president and Roosevelt made him secretary of commerce, he appointed Horch regional director of the department of commerce for the states of New York and New Jersey.

This was a position of enormous power. Horch had the right to approve or disapprove the export of machinery and all other goods to Russia and all other foreign countries which he and Wallace favored.

Last October he was allowed to resign after I had exposed his past performances and his interesting character as revealed by his letters to Roerich and his association with Wallace in the weird cult.

BOB HOPE

Evidently Stalin has been listening to the "Miss Hush" program.

The Russian government just passed a law prohibiting Russians from talking to foreigners.

Bob Hope

The only Russian who can speak to a foreigner is Molotov and he only has one word. He's got even that down to a routine now. He doesn't bother saying the word . . . He just shakes his head.

Even the Volga boatmen are worried. They are now humming.

But waiters can still converse with foreigners. Of course, all they are allowed to say is "Why didn't you finish your borscht?"

And they still permit ticket sellers to talk to you. The last thing they will close up will be the two ruble windows at the track.

I know of one American correspondent who was watching a Russian soccer match and asked a Russian spectator who was winning. The guy ignored him, turned to his neighbor and said, "Stalin was right. These Americans never know the score."

They may carry this law a step further. It could be worse. At least now when you whistle at a Russian girl, she can still whistle back.

Of course, this new law doesn't affect me very much. My pictures have been playing in Moscow for years and they haven't been allowed to talk to me since "Road to Utopia."

No Basis for Superstitions, Savant Avers

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW-YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—If you think breaking a mirror means bad luck, you can blame the idea on a pagan ancestor who saw his hairy face reflected from a still pool of water.

He thought the reflection was his own spirit staring at him out of the world of spirits. When mirrors were invented, the idea lingered on. Breaking the image meant breaking contact with the spirit world and that was bad medicine.

"Unlucky" Reasons Given

Friday the 13th is "unlucky" for two reasons, says John R. Saunders, associate curator of education at the American Museum of Natural History. Thirteen always has been regarded as an unlucky number, just as seven was considered lucky. The crucifixion occurred on Friday, making it an unfortunate day.

Saunders, whose hobby is studying the hundreds of superstitions and nonsensical beliefs that still thrive in this atomic age, says Americans spend at least $153,000,000 annually on fortune tellers. They have bought at least 10,000,000 rabbits' feet, paying from a dime to $5 a paw. They spend more millions, he adds, on charms, love-potions, powders, cream books, horoscopes and other items.

Waste Time

"But an even greater cost is in wasted time in thinking about or obeying superstitions, and in fuzzy thinking. Superstitions live because people will believe what they want to believe, and won't look for the facts. Progress in solving our modern-day problems will call for clear heads, and for not so much willingness to swallow half-truths or apparent statements of fact without examining them."

That's how most superstitions got started, Saunders explains.

The superstitions are like old toys or trinkets of thinking that humans still hang on to, Saunders said. Many people believe in them because life still is an uncertain and insecure thing. He advises that you laugh at your superstitions, try to reason them out, and then forget them.

Commodity Mart 'Bust' Viewed As Good Deal to Republicans

By LYLE C. WILSON
UP Political Analyst

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—Politicians are counting the commodity market break as a pretty good break for the Republicans. A little more of the same might be even better for the GOP in this presidential election year.

So far the dip in retail prices has not gone deep enough nor affected enough basic living cost items to make a great deal of political medicine for anyone. If the downward trend continues both parties may find themselves within a few months of clashing cleats for lower coats to consumers while they are trying to soothe farmers whose income is going down, too.

In a normal political situation it would be much simpler. The outs would blame everything on the ins, and that would be that. Normally one party could be out and the other in. But since Jan. 1947, the Republicans have been in congress while the Democrats held control of the White House. They share about equally in responsibility for government, and the land has echoed with the charges that the other was responsible for high prices.

President Truman made the most adroit move of his political career last autumn when he summoned congress to return. Legislative leaders thought they were coming back primarily to vote emergency funds for Europe pending enactment of the Marshall plan. They also were advised that Mr. Truman would ask for legislation to curb the cost of living.

There was discussion between the White House and Republican congressional leaders who got the idea that Mr. Truman's cost-of-living program would be considerably less controversial than it turned out to be. Along with the brakes which had been discussed or intimated by the White House, Mr. Truman fired at congress a request for limited authority to re-impose price controls, rationing and ceilings on wages.

The Republican leadership was astonished if not flabbergasted. A few Republicans wanted to vote Mr. Truman the whole bill of goods and the theory that his limited program would only compound the economic confusion to his ultimate disadvantage. That being impractical, the congress refused to grant any price, rationing or wage controls to the President.

Whatever they may have said about it in public, many Republicans felt that the Democratic President had put the GOP in a bad hole in an election year. Mr. Truman was in a pretty good position to continue to ask for the controls he didn't get and his party spokesmen could charge that lack of them was keeping prices up or sending them higher.

Public Aid to "Unobligated" Said Menace

PALO ALTO, Calif., Feb. 13 (AP)—The idea that poverty-stricken, inefficient people have some innate right to be fed, clothed, housed and "supported in idleness" from the public purse is a menace to democracy, Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, anthropologist, asserted last night.

When social programs are based upon that idea, Dr. Hooton said in a lecture before a Stanford university audience, "democracy is lost."

Dr. Hooton, who is a professor at Harvard university, said charity multiplies those who receive it.

"Recognize No Obligation

"Stupid shiftless and improvident human beings," he added, "breed the most rapidly because they feel little responsibility to their offspring and recognize no obligation to society, but only their right to be supported by it.

He suggested a plan for peace requiring birth control, a system of evaluating individual personalities and an attempt to increase the "low I. Q. of governments."

Youngsters would be tested several times to determine their potential abilities. Those found incapable of social usefulness and decent behavior would be weeded out of the educational system.

Suggests School Reforms

School would be reformed to get away from "haphazard teaching of facts, theories and techniques without regard to the capacity of students to profit by them."

"If we must feed and foster the incompetent," he added, "we should at the same time prevent their reproducing their kind."

He said the most discouraging feature of the world is that the fate of humanity is in the hands of governments "which almost always exhibit behaviour resultant of the low average intelligence of their citizens."

Dr. Hooton said a raising of the level of education among individuals would result in improvement in governments.

Parity Props Are Ready to Aid on Wheat

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—The government is ready to support prices of wheat at not less than 90 per cent of parity if market prices drop that low.

There is a mandatory requirement farm price support legislation that this be done, an agriculture department official said today.

Parity is a standard used by the government for measuring farm prices. Parity prices are declared by law to be equally fair to producers and consumers.

In the case of wheat, 90 per cent of parity, for price support purposes, is $2.08 a bushel at Chicago. Wheat closed considerably above this level at Chicago Wednesday. Markets were closed yesterday.

On a national basis, the support program is designed to assure farmers an average of about $1.82 a bushel for wheat.

The government supports prices of grains by means of both loans to growers at rates equivalent to 90 per cent of parity or buys it from them at the same rate.

29,497 State Students Get Hot Lunches

BOISE, Feb. 13 (AP)—Idaho's school lunch program is moving ahead with an average daily participation of 29,497 students in December, Thelma Lee, school lunch field supervisor for the state department of education, said today.

The school lunch program is supervised by the state and is paid by federal funds. The federal allocation for lunches in Idaho for the school year 1947-48 is $189,000, Mrs. Lee said.

In addition, Idaho receives surplus commodities for use in the program and the estimated value of the surplus reached $86,163.

Of the surlus already received in Idaho there were 3,200 cases of tomato juice, 1,050 cases of tomatoes, 2,000 cases of dried milk, 2,500 cases of dried prunes, almost 2,000 cases of raisins, more than 500 cases each of orange juice, dried eggs, cheese, and about 200 cases each of different flavors of jam.

Mrs. Lee said that 232 schools were participating in the hot lunch program and the average daily participation had climbed from more than 19,000 in October to more than 29,000 in December.

4-H Boys Trade Sides, Profit Off State Pheasants

ST. Maries, Feb. 13 (AP)—Catch a pheasant hunter in a weak moment and he'll admit the delicacy cost him about one dollar a pound, served on his table.

But two St. Maries 4-H club members will tell you how they made the birds pay a profit.

The St. Maries Sportsmen's association decided it wanted more birds to bang away at during the 1947 season.

County Agent Loren Kaxbitsch talked the problem over with Charles Epler and Lee Kam, 4-H club members living in the Harrison flats.

The three did some pen building and the sportsmen purchased 255 pheasant chicks for each boy from the Lapwai game farm.

Despite the many things that can happen to a pheasant chick, one of the boys released 237 birds and the other 238. The association paid one dollar for each bird released at the age of eight weeks.

The youngsters figured they cleared from $175 to $185 each.

Sportsmen had more chances to get their dollar-a-pound delicacy into the frying pan.

Grosse and Kelly Rites Performed in Shoshone

SHOSHONE, Feb. 13—A candlelight ceremony performed at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Feb. 4, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grosse, Shoshone, united in marriage Beverly Grosse and Lee Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Kelly, also Shoshone.

The couple stood under an archway decorated with white snapdragons and fern as the Rev George Allen, Methodist pastor, read the single-ring rites. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding, the former Miss Grosse had selected a white suit of wool and carried a bouquet of talisman roses and a white Bible. As a sentimental token she wore a ring belonging to her sister, Mrs. J. J. Anderson, Denver, Colo. who was matron of honor. Mrs. Anderson, a student at the University of Idaho, was dressed in a gray suit worn with a pink corsage.

Roger Kelly, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Mrs. John O'Hagan played the wedding march.

Mrs. Grosse wore black crepe with matching accessories, and Mrs. Kelley was gowned in a pearl gray striped dress and matching accessories.

The newlyweds cut their wedding cake at a reception held immediately after the ceremony. A miniature bridal couple topped the cake, which centered a table trimmed with sweet peas and acacia. Mrs. Ross Floyd had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Ethel Towman, Twin Falls, poured.

When the couple left on a short honeymoon trip, the bride was dressed in a three piece ensemble of brown and green. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will make their home at Moscow, where both are attending the University of Idaho.

The bride is a senior at the university. She graduated from the Buhl high school in 1946 and attended Mills college in California for a year and a half and a summer course at the University of Denver, Colo.

Her husband is a 1942 graduate of Buhl high school. He served in the air corps during the war and is now a sophomore in pre-medical training at the University of Idaho, where he is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Traffic Official Talks on Safety At BPW Meet

JEROME, Feb. 13—With "Safety and Health" as the theme for the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club Monday evening, Eugene Hagler, a state traffic officer for nearly five years, stressed the importance of safety practice on our highways.

"Responsibility lies with the parents and other adults in teaching younger people the rules of good and safe driving," he stated, "as more people between the ages of 16 and 24 are involved in auto accidents than in any other age group."

He also pointed out that in 1947 there were 232 traffic deaths in Idaho with $175,000 auto damage. He feels that if more safety practices were taught at home, these accidents could be greatly reduced.

Speaking on the second half of the theme was Dr. James E. Sloat, who discussed heart disease, which he stated is our No. 1 killer today. He pointed out, that through the American Heart association much progress is being made in the research of this disease which in future years will probably lessen its dangers.

Following the program, a short business meeting was held and it was decided that the club will sponsor a Girl Scout group.

Golden Gloves Proves Big Success Except at Box Office

The third annual Northwest Championship Golden Gloves tournament proved a costly affair, according to a financial statement released today by W. W. "Frenchy" Frantz, the Legionnaire who, as in past years, served as secretary-treasurer for the big event. But, as an advertisement for the city, Auditorium men were unanimous in the opinion that the cauliflower extravaganza was worth all that it cost.

Although a total of $6,856.56 rolled into the Legion treasury via the turnstile route, there was a deficit of $736.28 and when the expenses of sending the eight champions to the Golden Gloves "Tournament of Champions" in Chicago is added this deficit will grow to an estimated $2,236.28.

The cost of staging the tournament, Frantz said, was $7,592, which he broke down as follows:

Federal taxes	$ 989.03
State taxes	495.68
Equipment purchased	585.39
Advertising, printing	113.95
Hotel bills	874.41
Transportation	1,874.55
Meals	1,666.95
Hauling, liability, trophies, referees, training quarters, watchmen, etc.	1,019.88

A total of 121 boys battled in the tournament for championships. They represented 27 different localities in the northwest—Montana, Washington, Utah and Oregon.

Fifty-five of the boys were from seven Magic Valley localities. Sixty-six represented cities outside this area with 14 from other Idaho points.

There were 23 trainers in charge of the fighters.

Never before, certainly not in a sports way, did Twin Falls receive so much advertising, and more will be obtained when the northwest champions battle in Chicago because, no matter their origin, they will be announced as from this city.

The Associated Press carried the complete results of the tournament over three different wires. They included the Idaho-Utah wire, the northwest wire which provides news for northern Idaho, Washington and Oregon and the Montana state wire out of Denver. Also carrying the final results was the Chicago Tribune.

The Golden Gloves tournament will be continued, subject, of course, to the National Golden Gloves association, of which the Times-News is a member. That apparently is the desire of all the Magic Valley, especially of those persons who attended the four night sessions of the greatest boxing extravaganza ever staged in the northwest.

On the SPORT FRONT With YOSS

(The Fudgy One)

Mr. Glen Trail, the seed magnate, just can't get enough golf whether its on the links or in the newspapers he so very often reminds Ye Olde Sport Scrivener.

Therefore, YOSS is aiming this column at him with the hope that other golfers in the Magic Valley will get their appetite whetted for the public game that will are its greatest Magic Valley season in 1948 with two clubs, one of them revitalized by d new clubhouse, operating in Twin Falls and about four others in other parts of the area.

JIMMY RUSSELL

First, the ancient word puddler would like to inform the local golfers that one of their own was out cavorting with the big boys of the ancient Scotch game last week. The gent was Jimmy Russell, now a Texas collegian, who performed in the pro-amateur best-ball that preceded the famed Texas open at Houston.

And Jimmy didn't do so badly. He and Pro Joe Brown of Des Moines, Ia., finished second in that select field with a best ball of 62, tying with Pro Johnny Hulls, Phoenix, and Amateur Willard Nesmith, San Antonio.

That 62 was just one stroke off victory.

If the pudgy one's memory isn't leading him astray Mr. Trail became greatly interested in one Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C. pro whom he saw in the Ninth Open last fall and spent the remainder of the fall and winter scanning sport pages and golfing magazines to find out more about the youngster.

For Mr. Trail's information Palmer is the golfer that George Schmeiter of Ogden, a pro who is well known here, picks to be the big money winner of the 1948 campaign. He's the selection down in Harlingen, Tex., while pointing with pride at the new, bright crop of golfers now showing the big names of a decade into the back ground.

"We all feel that Palmer will lead the field in winnings," said Schmeiter, chairman of the PGA tournament committee who makes the tour as manager-player.

"Last year, you know, Johnny won $10,704 and was in sixth place. His stroke average for 100 rounds was 70.48. Had he been eligible (being a PGA member) he would have been on the Ryder cup team. He is eligible this year and he has already won $4,040 in six tournaments and his stroke average has been 69.13."

Others listed by Schmeiter "as destined to displace the present but fading big names are Stewart (Skip) Alexander, Mid-Pines, N. C.; Ed Furgol, Pontiac, Mich.; Fred Hawkins, Antioch, Ill.; George Schoux, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Jackson Bradley, St. Charles, Ill.; Jack Burke, jr., White Plains, N. Y.; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.; Dave Douglas, Wilmington, Del.; Elroy Marti, Houston, (one of the golfers who beat out Hogan sell in the best-ball); Marty Furgol, Los Angeles; Bill Nary, Phoenix, Ariz.; Eric Monti, Santa Monica, Calif., and Roberto De Vicenzo, Rosario province, Argentina.

Schmeiter pointed out that these up and coming players lend relegated much familiar company to Ky Lafoon, Dick Metz and Lawson Little to 20th position or lower in the money-winning list.

"Well-balanced this has the field of golf become that I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we went through the year without a single player winning two tournaments," Schmeiter declared.

"Golf has become a serious business. All who are in it work hard. The incentive to get to the top is the greatest it ever has been because of not only the glory but the big money that now can be earned."

Big 7 Tilt at Rupert Features 10-Game Bill

The game that should be the most important of the year in the Big Seven conference will be played tonight at Rupert when Coach George Hays' Bucs, with nine wins and one loss, play Coach Grant Maughan's Buhl Indians, who have lost only one contest in nine played. Rupert's one loss — the lone victory gained by a Magic Valley team over the Bucs in some 50 contests — was handed them by the Indians.

If Rupert wins tonight the Pirates will clinch their third straight Big Seven conference bunting. However, if Buhl wins they will have a good chance of going on to win.

There are 10 games on tonight's bill.

Other games in the Big Seven show Gooding at Filer and Jerome at Burley, while Twin Falls will travel to Nampa for a Big Six conference game.

Games in B class call for Gooding State at King Hill, Hailey at Bellevue, Bliss at Carey, Malta at Albion and Mountain Home at Glenns Ferry.

Scoring Duel

One of the greatest scoring duels of the season took place last night when Al Glanders of Fairfield rolled up 10 field goals and two free throws for 22 points and Kite of Shoshone shoved in 10 field goals for 20 points, Shoshone won the game, 65-55, to predict a battle when these two teams meet in the North Side sectionals tournament next week.

Tuesday night Glanders scored 31 points for the second time this year.

Fairfield took a 16-13 first-quarter lead but Shoshone came back to gain a 34-33 advantage at the half and then score 20 points to Fairfield's 10 in the third period to clinch the game.

In the junior varsity game; Fairfield won from Shoshone, 46-45.

The best scoring performance of the evening, however, was put on by D. Allen of Bliss, who registered 10 field goals and four free throws for 24, while his brother, G. Allen, got 16 as Bliss won from Wendell, 64-28.

Under ordinary circumstances, this would be the biggest upset of the season, but Coach Keith Judd of Wendell saved his regulars for the hard tournament next week. Carroll Thompson kept close to her scoring pace when she tossed in 21 points as the Bliss girls won the preliminary, 34-22.

Wolves Defeat Murtaugh

Coach Ernie Clute's Castleford Wolves completed their regular season without a defeat by a B school when they won from Coach L. D. Anderson's Murtaugh Red Devils, 48-43.

The Wolves took a 23-5 first quarter lead and had things very much their own way thereafter.

Wiggins with five field goals and five free throws paced the Wolves, while Haynes had 11 points for Murtaugh.

Lincoln scored 15 points as the Murtaugh junior varsity defeated Castleford, 32-19, in the preliminary. Williams had six points for the Wolves.

Another upset was registered when Bobby Berg dazed in the field goal that gave Declo a 33-32 victory over Hazelton. Declo had a 26-23 lead going into the final quarter.

Berg scored 13 points, while Bragg and Steinmetz each had 10 for Hazelton.

Hazelton won the junior varsity preliminary, 31-25.

The Twin Falls junior varsity was given a scare when Hansen scored 11 points to its three in the final period but the former held on to win, 30-28. Arrington had eight points for the junior varsity, while Sims scored 11 for Hansen.

With Miss Perkins scoring 20 points, Kimberly defeated Hansen, 37-15, in the girls' preliminary. Nell Smith had seven points for Hansen.

Fowles Sets Pace

With Fowles tossing in eight field goals, Coach Howard Stone's Oakley Hornets defeated Filer, 50-43, in the lone class A game played. Bean had 14 points for Filer.

The teams were tied, 15-15, at the end of the first quarter, but Oakley took a seven-point lead in the second and never thereafter was in trouble.

The Oakley jayvee won from the Filer junior varsity, 47-43, in the preliminary. Crafton had 17 points for Oakley, while Rayborn had 15 for Filer.

Bouts Tonight to Select Opponents For Two Champs

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Profitable dates with lightweight champ Ike Williams and welter king Ray Robinson hinge on tonight's card of three 10-rounders at Madison Square garden.

If Bernard Docusen reverses a December loss to Gene Burton in the main event, the New Orleans flash may get Williams Feb. 27, or Robinson in May. If Burton, a New York kid who has been doing most of his battling on the road, repeats over Docusen he's due to get a whack at Ike.

Kid Gavilan, billed as the best to come out of Cuba since Kid Chocolate, also figures in the picture. The kid meets rugged Vinnie Rossano of Brooklyn in another ten. If Gavilan is as impressive as the top-heavy 1 to 3 odds would make him, he has a chance for a welter title bout with Robinson at the Yankee stadium.

Beglan in 3-Way Cue Tourney Tie

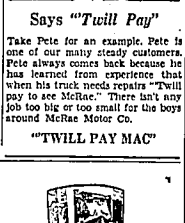

Matt Beglan spotted Addie Martindale a 25-point handicap and defeated him 85-79 in a 31-inning match in the city championship billiard tournament at the Evergreen parlor. The win placed Beglan in a three-way tie for first place honors with Frank Greene and Tom Wilson.

In the second game, N. O. Johnson, with the help of a 63 point handicap, defeated Harry Povey, 150 to 85, in a 32-inning billiard game. The loss eliminated Povey.

Johnson and Beglan each had high runs of 18.

Johnson and Floyd Finnel will meet at 730 p.m. Friday.

Murtaugh to Oppose Eden for Grade Title

EDEN, Feb. 13 — With Cerva scoring 16 points in one game and 10 in the other, Murtaugh won its way to the championship game against Eden in the third annual grade school tournament here Friday night.

Trailing 1-4 at the half, Hazelton pulled to within a point of Murtaugh as the final quarter was reached. However, in the last quarter, Murtaugh scored 10 points to their rivals one.

Murtaugh scored 24 points to their rivals 14 in the final quarter of the game with Greenwood after the two teams had counted a total of 13 points in the first three quarters.

Clough was Hazelton's leading scorer with five points, while A. Trivitt was best for Greenwood with eight.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—Post-holiday recoveries were achieved by individual rail and industrial stocks today although many market leaders suffered from neglect.

Dealings turned quiet after a fairly active start. Early hardening of some recently weak commodities bolstered sentiment for securities to a certain extent. While gains running to a point or so predominated for pivotals at the close, declines of as much were plentiful. Top marks were reduced or cancelled here and there. Volume tapered to around 1,000,000 shares.

Ahead most of the time were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Chrysler, Youngstown Sheet, Goodyear, Firestone Tire, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Oliver Corp., American Smelting, American Can, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, American Woolen, Gulf Oil and United Air Lines.

Bonds were narrowly irregular.

Britain May Use Force in Wages, Profits Lid Plans

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Britain's top economic planner says the labor government may have to use force to keep down wages and profits.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer and minister of economic affairs, told the house of commons so last night. He urged Britons again to accept voluntary controls.

The French government also moved against price boosts. It sent the national assembly in Paris a bill to outlaw all price increases since Jan. 15 not justified by production costs. A lawbreaker could be jailed for a year and put out of business.

British unions some 5,000,000 strong have been insisting upon higher pay despite Prime Minister Attlee's hold-the-line plea in last week's government white paper. They are in coal mining, railroading, shipbuilding, engineering and civil service.

Cripps reiterated the appeal for voluntary measures to stem wage and profit rises. Then he asked the house:

"Can we take them in a democratic way by free choice, or are we to demand the imposition of them by force?"

Dixie Demos Act For "Full Revolt"

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 13 (AP) — Shouting rebel yells and waving the Confederate flag, Mississippi Democrats met here late yesterday to spearhead a nationwide revolt against their party's leadership.

Judge Herbert Holmes of Senatobia, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, said Sen. Harry Byrd, D., Va., might be asked to head a revolt.

The judge said Byrd, who often has been critical of party leaders, had not been contacted, but was being considered for a leading role in the conference authorized yesterday by mass meeting of 5,000 Mississippians.

NEW BRITAIN ENVOY

Idaho Apples May Be 'too Big' for Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP)—Idaho's apples are "too big," says Senator Dworshak, R., Ida.

And as a result the senator isn't too optimistic that Idaho orchardists will be able to sell part of their 1947 crop to the government. They have a chance, however, he reported.

The commodity credit corporation plans to purchase $2,400,000 worth of apples for the school lunch program and relief needs. While not for export, the CCC will specify export size apples, packing from 175 to 216 to the box, in order to take fruit of this type out of competition with the export market, which has fallen off.

Informs Reporter

Dworshak told a reporter:

"You know the story that Idaho's big potatoes have to be cut in two to get them into the oven.

"Well, that's the trouble with Idaho apples. They're too big."

He said he thought some of the Idaho surplus might qualify under the government program and, in any event, the growers should benefit by the improved market. The government does not permit a grower to sacrifice size to meet bid requirements.

Rome Beauties Added

At an industry conference, it was agreed to recommend that winesaps, orleys, newtons and Rome beauties be included in the purchase program. The Rome beauties were added to meet the Idaho situation.

Furthermore, Dworshak said, Idaho apples that meet requirements might conceivably be purchased to meet the needs of the lunch program in nearby areas at a saving of transportation costs.

He emphasized, however, that apples are not covered by the Steagall act, which assures the grower 90 per cent of parity price. The purchases, said, will be made strictly on a bid basis.

HAGERMAN VISITORS

HAGERMAN, Feb. 13—Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Wagner, Argentina, S. A., are on their way home after spending two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parsons.

Half Loaf Would Have Been Okay

BURLEY, Feb. 13—Had anyone had a loaf of bread handy, free cheese sandwiches could have been had for the asking about a mile east of Unity Wednesday.

Free milk could have been had with the sandwiches, too.

The milk and cheese became available suddenly when a truck, owned by the Kraft cheese plant at Rupert and driven by Albert Hunsaker, Rupert, tipped over on the highway. Slippery highways are blamed for the mishap. Damage to the truck has been estimated at $1,000. Hunsaker was uninjured.

Initiation Held by Albion Grangers

ALBION, Feb. 13—Mr. and Mrs. K. Perkins and Mr. and Mrs. J. Peterson recently received the third and fourth Grange degrees at an initiation here.

Mrs. J. B. Chatburn is captain of the first and second degree team and Mrs. Mark Bowlden is captain of the third and fourth team.

Farmers Cut 8 Million Off Indebtedness

SPOKANE, Feb. 13—Farmers and ranchers in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington last year liquidated $8,300,000 of their indebtedness to the Federal Land bank of Spokane, R. E. Brown, president, said here today. During the same 12-month period the bank recorded more than $9,400,000 in new loans.

Brown said the liquidations in 1947 were $2,600,000 less than in 1946, while new loans closed were $1,400,000 greater than in the preceding year. Out of the total of $8,300,000 liquidated last year, $3,540,000 represented loans paid off prior to maturity and $2,700,000 represented regular payments on principal.

During the year the bank paid a 6 per cent dividend of $175,000 to its stockholders. All of the bank's capital stock, Brown pointed out, is owned by 76 locally owned and operated national farm loan associations. These cooperative associations passed the bulk of the dividend on to their members, retaining only that amount needed to assure a long-time sound business operation and to meet possible future contingencies.

In addition to paying the dividend, the bank decreased its bonded indebtedness $2,000,000 in 1947 to a total of $39,000,000, and finished the year with $48,500,000 in loans and contracts on its books; $2,146,000 in cash; $1,800,000 in government bonds, and with delinquencies of only $220,000. It has no acquired properties for sale. Brown said the bank's capital stock, owned by national farm loan associations, stood at $2,925,000 on Dec. 31, while surplus and reserves increased $483,000, to a total of $10,745,000.
